FOURTEENTH RAINDANCE FILM FESTIVAL

27th Sept. - 8 Oct. 2006

UPROOTED

THURSDAY 5 OCTOBER AT 9:15 PM

Country France/USA Running Time 126min Format DigiBeta Director/Producer/DoP Donia Mili Print Source Donia Mili E anoliveproduction@yahoo.com

Playing with I Remember Lebanon 6 mins

Since the fall of Apartheid, Palestinian resistance to Israeli occupation is perhaps more widely documented than other anti-imperialist struggles but the result of Donia Mili's enterprise in the occupied territories is well worth our undivided attention. In her beautifully narrated documentary Donia Mili takes us to the heart of day to day life in Palestine. Using a very personal filming and interviewing style, we are guided through the realities of resistance and activism in a land where stone-wielding kids meet tanks and peaceful protestors meet tear gas. Tales of destroyed houses, murdered friends and stolen property are told with an intimacy that makes emotional detachment frankly impossible.

The documentary contains political analysis worthy of John Pilger, with the likes of Noam Chomsky, Leila Khaled and his Excellency Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria commenting on the nature and value of Palestinian resistance and Israeli hypocrisy.

Uprooted is essentially an assessment of violent versus non violent protest in Palestine explored through Donia Mili's genuine search for the best approach for the Palestinian people's cause. UG
